River Valley Region: Georgia DOT awards construction contract for Clay and Randolph Counties resurfacing, shoulder rehab project

ATLANTA, Georgia — The Georgia Department of Transportation (Georgia DOT) has awarded 23 new contracts for construction projects across the state as part of their December 2024 bidding process. One was for a TIA-funded project in the River Valley region. It is:

- Clay and Randolph Counties: this project will resurface and provide shoulder rehabilitation to 18.95 miles of Cotton Hill Road, beginning at SR 266 in Clay County and extending to east of SR 266 in Randolph County. The contract was awarded to Oxford Construction Company of Albany for $3.92 million. The project is expected to be completed at the end of Fall 2025.

For more information on this project and others in the River Valley region, check out: <http://www.ga-tia.com/>.

The TIA Program: Georgia's Transportation Investment Act (TIA) provides a unique process for regions to fund community-selected transportation infrastructure projects through a voter-approved one-cent sales tax. In partnership with the Georgia Department of Transportation, regions are empowered to advance their economic and community development with regionally-oriented funds for construction projects, allowing them to be undertaken more quickly and efficiently.
